RE: Proposed Rule 4.3

Dear Mr. Sondheim:

The State Bar of California's Committee on Professional Responsibility and Conduct (COPRAC) appreciates the opportunity to comment on the proposed amendments to the Rules of Professional Conduct of the State Bar of California, pursuant to the request of the Board Committee on Regulation, Admissions & Discipline Oversight (RAD) for public comment.

COPRAC has reviewed the provisions of proposed Rule 4.3—Dealing with Unrepresented Person. COPRAC supports the adoption of proposed Rule 4.3 and the Comments to the Rule.

Thank you for your consideration of our comments.

Very truly yours,

MEMORANDUM

Date: April 22, 2008

To: Special Commission for the Revision of the Rules of Professional Conduct
The State Bar of California

From: San Diego County Bar Association ("SDCBA")

Re: "3rd Batch," Proposed New or Amended Rules of Professional Conduct of the State Bar of California

Subject: Proposed Rule 4.3 – Dealing with Unrepresented Person [Existing CRPC Rule: None]

Founded in 1899 and comprised of over 8,000 members, the SDCBA is its region's oldest and largest law-related organization. Its response herein, as adopted by the SDCBA Board of Directors, followed extensive review and consideration by its selectively-constituted Legal Ethics Committee, the advisory body charged by the SDCBA bylaws with providing its members guidance in the areas of ethics and ethical considerations.

The SDCBA supports national uniformity in professional ethics as a general premise. It respectfully submits the following specific comments for your consideration:

* * * * *

Comment 1: Disapprove Proposed Rule 4.3.

Rationale For Comment 1: Proposed Rule 4.3 imposes new duties on an attorney with respect to unrepresented persons. Beyond diluting the duty a lawyer has to his or client, it takes little imagination to see this being used as a weapon by those who have unpleasant encounters with lawyers. The common law provides sufficient protection against the abuses of lawyers toward the unrepresented without adding a rule of discipline that may ultimately compromise, in addition to a lawyer's duty toward his or her client, the protections of the litigation privilege. (Civil Code section 47.)

The Proposed Rule 4.3 Comments play too great a role in setting the parameters of the rule and its exception. For example, Proposed Rule 4.3 Comments 4 and 5 state exceptions not found in the Proposed Rule itself.

The Proposed Rule 4.3 requires a lawyer to avoid giving legal advice if the person to whom he is speaking has interests that "have a reasonable possibility of being in conflict" with the interests of the client. It is unclear what this means and even whether it is limited to the present or to the foreseeable future.

In Family Law cases, there is a duty of divorcing spouses to give full financial disclosure as if they were business partners both at the beginning of the divorce and at the end. As a Family Law practitioner, upon the passage of this proposed rule, I would worry that I could somehow be accused of a violation by seeking to get this all-too-often private financial info under the Family Law Code.

I would like to know what constitutes misleading the opposing, unrepresented spouse? Can you give us real-world examples? What if, as in many of my dissolution of marriage cases, there are issues of mental illness and/or substance abuse or cultural differences and, hence, that person's perception of being misled is askewed? I had a case a few years back where the ex-husband signed a consent form clearly stating he understood that he was NOT my client, but he went to the State Bar complaining as my client. He was not misled, but believed he was. With a high percentage of Family Law cases--and with the economic downturn these numbers are increasing--having one unrepresented party. So many times I can tell a person the law, and despite my best efforts to use plain language, they just cannot understand.

Then I had a case last year where opposing counsel threatened criminal action to get an advantage in a civil matrimonial case--clearly attempting to mislead my client before I came into the case, but nothing was done by the State Bar. If existing violations are overlooked on other rules, what guarantees that violations of the proposed rules will not also go that way? We practitioners need certainty and clarity when it comes to the proposed rules.

re: Comments of the Office of the Chief Trial Counsel to Proposed Amendments to the Rules of Professional Conduct

Dear Ms. Hollins:

Preliminarily, the Office of the Chief Trial Counsel (OCTC) would like to thank Harry B. Sondheim, Chair, Mark L. Tuft and Paul W. Vapnek, Co-Vice-Chairs, and the members of the Commission for the Revision of the Rules of Professional Conduct, for the opportunity to submit comments to the proposed amendments to the Rules of Professional Conduct, as released for public comment by the Board of Governors. We appreciate the Commission's considerable efforts in crafting rules of conduct for California attorneys relevant to our contemporary legal environment. While we concur with many of the Commission's recommendations, we raise some points of disagreement. Our disagreement is offered in the spirit of aiding in the adoption of rules which can be practically and fairly understood by the attorneys in this state and applied in a uniform fashion by both this Office and the State Bar Court. While OCTC has submitted comments in the past to some of these rules as they were initially submitted,¹ we welcome this opportunity to comment on the entire set of rules and in context. Further, there have been changes to the proposed rules since our original comments.² We hope you find our thoughts helpful.

SUMMARY

We summarize our main concerns as follows:

- Some of the rules are becoming too complicated and long, making them difficult to understand and enforce;
- There are way too many Comments to the Rules, making the rules unwieldy, confusing, and ¹ OCTC refers the Commission to its previous comments and recommendations.

² We are not commenting on the rules that were not recommended or tentatively adopted by the Board of Governors (BOG).

difficult to read, understand, and enforce. Many of the Comments are more appropriate for treatises, law review articles, and ethics opinions. The Comments clutter and overwhelm the rules. We recommend that most of the Comments be stricken or that the Rules be adopted without the Comments;

- Many of the Comments are too large and thus bury the information sought to be presented;
- Several of the Comments are in our opinion legally incorrect (i.e. Comment 9 of Rule 1.8.1 and Comment 5 of rule 1.9);
- One of the Comments invades OCTC's prosecutory discretion (i.e. Comment 6 of Rule 8.4);
- Some of the rules are confusing and inconsistent with the State Bar Act (i.e. that an attorney's misrepresentation to a court cannot be based on gross negligence);
- Some of the rules attempt to define and limit provisions adopted by the Legislature in the State Bar Act (i.e. Rule 1.6's defining the scope of confidentiality in Business & Professions Code section 6068(e)); and
- Some of the proposed rules deviate unnecessarily from the ABA Model Rules (i.e. proposed rules 3.9, 4.4 and 8.4).³

GENERAL COMMENTS

OCTC finds many of the proposed rules too lengthy and complicated, often making them difficult to understand and enforce. There are way too many Comments to the Rules, making the rules unwieldy, confusing, and difficult to read, understand, and enforce. We would strongly suggest that the rules be simplified and the Comments either be significantly reduced or entirely eliminated. Otherwise, it is hard to imagine the attorneys of this state reading and understanding the entirety of the rules and official Comments. Further, we believe that some of the Comments are legally incorrect.

The Rules and Comments are not meant to be annotated rules, a treatise on the rules, a series of ethics opinions, a law review article, or musings and discussions about the rules and best practices. There are other more appropriate vehicles for such discussions and expositions.

Every attorney is required to know and understand the Rules of Professional Conduct. This is why ignorance of a rule is no defense in a State Bar proceeding. (See Zitny v. State Bar (1966) 64 Cal.2d 787, 793.) Yet, the proposed rules (including Comments) are 99 pages; contain 68 rules; and almost 500 Comments. One rule alone has 38 Comments.⁴

In contrast, the current rules are 30 pages; contain 46 rules; and 94 comments.⁵ The 1974 rules were 13 pages; contained 25 rules; and 6 comments.⁶ The original 1928 rules were 4 pages long; contained 17 rules; and had no comments.

³ Unless stated otherwise, all future references to section are to a section of the Business & Professions Code; all references to rule are to the current Rules of Professional Conduct; all references to proposed rule is to the Commission's proposed Rule of Professional Conduct; and all references to the Model Rules are to the ABA's current Model Rules of Professional Conduct.

⁴ See proposed rule 1.7. Another rule has 26 comments. (See proposed rule 1.6.)

⁵ The current rules list them as Discussion paragraphs; most are unnumbered, but OCTC estimates there are 94 paragraphs of discussion and will refer to them as comments so that there is a standard reference.

⁶ The 1974 rules had 6 footnotes (*), four simply reference another rule and two contain a short substantive discussion.

Letter from OCTC
To Randall Difuntorum
June 15, 2010

Many of the proposed Comments appear to be nothing more than a rephrasing of the rule or an annotated version of the rule. If the rule is ambiguous or not clear enough, the solution should not be a Comment rephrasing the rule, but a redrafting of the rule so it is clear and understandable. Likewise, discussing the purpose of the rule, best practices, or the limits of the rule are not proper Comments to the rules. There are other better vehicles for such discussions. Lawyers can read and conduct legal research when needed.

In addition, the rules and Comments make too much use of references to other rules and Comments, making it hard to understand the rules. Some of the Comments are too long and, thus, bury information in a very long Comment. Other Comments appear to be legally incorrect. We would recommend that most of the Comments be stricken or that the Rules be adopted without the Comments. It is our understanding that about seven states have not adopted the ABA's Comments, although two of those still provide the ABA's comments as guidance.

We are also concerned that there are too many separate conflicts rules (see rules 1.7, 1.8, 1.9, 1.10, 1.11, 1.12, 1.13(g), and 1.18) and they often incorporate each other, making it difficult to comprehend, understand, and enforce them.⁷

⁷ There is actually no Rule 1.8, but several separate rules, going from 1.8.1 through 1.8.11.

Letter from OCTC
To Randall Difuntorum

Rule 4.3. Dealing with Unrepresented Person.

1. OCTC supports this rule, but believes that there are too many Comments, many are too long and cover subjects and discussions best left to treatises, law review articles, and ethics opinions.
